
Indigenous sexual health

Culturally-appropriate access, advocacy and support services

Assisting Aboriginal and Torres Strait
Islander people living in Brisbane North, with their health needs.

Supported by the MNHHS Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Health Unit.

Indigenous sexual health

The Indigenous Sexual Health team is located at The Pine Rivers Community Health Centre in Strathpine. Services are available to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people within the Metro North catchment, from the Brisbane River up to Kilcoy.

We provide culturally appropriate support, education and prevention services to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people and communities on sexual health issues, including:

- Treatment access
- Education
- Prevention
- Transport and client support for specialised medical appointments
- Service referrals
- Community engagement
- Condom distribution
- Health promotion, focused around
- Sexually Transmitted Infections (STIs) and Blood Borne Viruses (BBVs)
- Men's and Women's business
- Men's and Women's Reproductive health
- Cultural supports
- Home visits
- Contact Tracing

CONTACT US

Pine Rivers Community Health Centre

568 Gympie Road Strathpine 4500

Team Leader: P (07) 34921822 M 0437692632

Clinical Nurse Consultant (CNC): P (07) 34921807

M 0448946566

Referrals

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people can self refer and also service providers.
